BRIDGE PURCHASE AT TRENTON LIKELY TO BE MADE SOON

Counsel for Owners Intimates
$250,000 Offer Will Be Accepted

THIRTY DAYS GIVEN
New Span Threat Is Made —
Trenton Gets Permission
To Erect Sign

TRENTON, N. J., Mar. 31.—Purchase of the Calhoun Street Bridge at a compromise price of $250,000, by the Joint Commission for the Elimination of Delaware River Toll Bridges, is expected to occur within 30 days. At a meeting of the commission yesterday morning in Philadelphia, Harry Heber, of this city, appearing for the owners, intimated their willingness to accept this price for the structure. Samuel S. Lewis, Pennsylvania State Treasurer, chairman of the commission, declared that the owners could have 30 days in which to accept the offer.

In allowing 30 days grace, Lewis warned Heber that if the offer was not accepted within the time limit, the commission would proceed with the erection of a new bridge.

The commission also invited the owners of the Frenchtown and Milford bridges to submit their lowest prices for the two structures. This move, was taken when a Frenchtown delegation appeared to urge the freeing of the bridge there. Because the two structures are only three miles apart, however, the commission decided that it would be unfair to the other community if the structures were purchased one at a time.

Permission to erect a sign advertising Trenton on the new span at Bridge Street, was granted by the commission. The present structure has attached to it the famous sign, "Trenton Makes, the World Takes." Kaufman, Parker and Louis Pocht, engineer for the commission, were appointed a committee to confer with the local Chamber of Commerce to arrange for the new sign.

Heber first told the commission that the owners would accept $250,000 for the Calhoun Street structure. Lewis pointed out, however, that the price offered by the commission was itself a compromise figure as heretofore their offer had been $200,000 while the owners demanded $300,000. He declared that the commission would not exceed their offer by "fifty cents."

Linked with the freeing of the bridge is the plan of City Commissioner Abram Swan, Jr., to divert much of the heavy traffic from the lower bridge and thence through the east of the city, by the extension of Calhoun street into Princeton avenue.

CROOKED BILLET EVENT IS TO BE SPECTACULAR

Preparations Are Made To Mark Revolutionary Burial
Grounds With Tablet

SCHOOLS, LEGION TO AID

HATBORO, Mar. 31.—At a meeting of the committees having charge of Sesqui-Centennial celebration of the battle of the Crooked Billet, much business was transacted. W. S. Ely, Doylestown, has fully investigated the scene of battle and has learned that the crest of the battle was on the farm of I. Newton Finney, in Warminster, then the farm of Thomas Craven, an ancestor of Mr. Finney to whom it passed by family line of descent, but now the property of Horace Wunderle. On this farm a number were killed and buried, and others in the unkempt Noble graveyard on the property of C. V. Leech, same township, about 1,000 feet west of Bonair station.

Mr. Ely suggested that a bronze tablet be erected on the Jacksonville road near Tanners Run, and on this tablet A. C. Young, C. E. commander of the Hathboro American Legion post, with Mr. Ely and Howard T. Halliwell, will have placed the exact direction and distances from this memorial to the burial plots. Mr. Young is making a complete map of the battlefield and historic points of interest within a radius of several miles, and this will find place in the beautiful 50 page program being made up, together with the history of the battle written by General Davis in 1860, with important additions by Mr. Ely.

Every school district and all private schools in the two counties will be invited to send delegations of not more than 100 or less than 50 to be in line, to be preceded by flags and banners plainly showing the district or school and to be accompanied with their marching musical organization.

Tableaux portraying episodes of progressive education from the Revolutionary period to the present time are being worked out by Prof. Shields, and the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will also be under his supervision.

Every American Legion post of the two counties is expected to be in line with their flags and music, and will furnish color bearers for the flags of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution. The Veterans of Foreign Wars will be a conspicuous feature of the parade and with their musical organization will be an attraction well worth while. The American Legion will maintain order and control and direct the parade features.

The Junior Neighbors are preparing a beautiful tableau of a Quaker wedding; Washington presenting Lafayette with his commission at Washington's Headquarters on Old York Road on the banks of the Little Neshaminy above Hartsville; the flinging to the breeze for the first time in history the United States flag. In these two incidents Bucks county ranks higher than any county in this country. Incidents relating to Elizabeth Ferguson, Governor Keith and Graeme Park, in Horsham, will be delineated on the lawn of the Union Library of Hatboro, and in the library room an exhibit of antiques collected by Mrs. Penrose

PERFECT PLANS TO RAISE RINGNECKS AT REFUGES

Commission Will Distribute
10,000 Eggs; New York
Helps Work

WILD TURKEYS, TOO

HARRISBURG, Mar. 31.—Officers of the State Game Commission today are perfecting final arrangements for the raising of ring neck pheasants at its refuges in various parts of the Commonwealth. In recent years the commission has been the largest buyer of game from those who make a specialty of raising the various species.

Large game within the State, such as the white-tailed deer and black bear, are holding their own; cottontail rabbits may be purchased outside the State at reasonable cost, but ringnecked pheasants may be purchased only in limited numbers and at excessive prices. The game commission as a result decided to use part of the money heretofore devoted to purchase of game, in rearing those birds on the refuges suited to their development.

The game commission plans to distribute eggs among refuges where there is open ground sufficiently extensive for establishing propagating plants, and where the refuge keepers can handle this work along with other activities. Arrangements are now being made to equip these refuges with hatching coops and exercising pens. About 500 of these pens will be provided for a few of the refuges where adult birds will be held for the production of fertile eggs.

New York Helps
The New York State Conservation Commission is so much interested in the success of this undertaking, that it has offered to donate 5000 pheasant eggs for Pennsylvania's use. New York's State Game Farms have been

START DRIVE AGAINST UNLICENSED INS. MEN

Trenton Insurance Man Is Nabbed for Unlicensed
Selling in State

HELD ON TWO CHARGES

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 31.—Pennsylvania insurance authorities yesterday began a campaign against unlicensed selling of insurance in this State by agents from New Jersey, with the arrest in Morrisville of Thomas A. Auld, Jr., of Trenton, on charges of unlicensed selling of automobile insurance in Pennsylvania. Auld is associated with his father in the firm of Thomas A. Auld & Son, Broad Street Bank Building, Trenton, N. J.

Charges were preferred by H. G. Petrick, of Harrisburg, a representative of the Pennsylvania Insurance Department, before Justice of the Peace Hobensack, of this place, and a warrant was sent to Chief Albert Cooper, of Morrisville, for service. Chief Cooper called Auld to Morrisville on a pretext and arrested him there. He was taken before Justice of the Peace Nolan and held in $300 bail on each, of two charges for a hearing in Doylestown next Wednesday afternoon.

SCHOOL BUILDING IS PRETTILY DECORATED

Rooms in Bath Street Decked
With Pussywillows and Drawings

DAFFODILS ALSO USED

A breath of Spring with its accompanying Easter season activities greets the visitor at the Bath street school building just now.

In five of the rooms of this spacious building either vases of pussy-willows, or cut-outs and drawings suggestive of the holiday season arrest one's attention.

Resting upon a fence which is drawn upon a sheet of paper, are two tiny "pussy-cats," fashioned of pussy-willows. The bodies of the felines are formed by the fuzzy pieces and the heads and tails have been drawn with pencil. The instructress of the third and fourth grade pupils housed there, Miss Grace Snook, remarked that the children appear to take more interest in this than any other project. Cut-outs of baskets filled with eggs are shown upon the black-boards and spring flowers and palming fences with birds atop them are in evidence.

Entering Miss Emma Anthony's schoolroom the Dutch project sponsored by the tots in the second grade is to be found. This has been placed upon the sand-board. The central piece is a tin wind-mill with a fan that actually revolves. The diminutive residents of Holland have been clipped from paper and colored. Tulips dot the board and paper houses in which the people of that country live are scattered here and there.

Another sand-table of interest is placed in the first grade room where Miss Helen Eisenberg has charge. Upon this square there are to be found a church, schoolhouse with flag and stores, as well as small homes. These have all been made by use of paper and scissors, and the glee of the kiddies was great as they planned and executed their work.

Much work in connection with the month of March has been likewise carried out by Miss Eisenberg's pupils. Then there are shown pictures of famous men who are America's best citizens. The children are urged to be good citizens and those who behave best in the schoolroom have their names placed upon a chart. Alongside the names of the policemen there have been placed gold stars. The small policemen assist the teacher in keeping the schoolroom neat and orderly. A few kites have been drawn upon paper and to these are attached strings of wool. The best work executed by the students finds a place on the wall. Daffodils play a large part in the decoration.

EDWARD B. MINSTER DIES AT AGE OF 84; OLDEST AUCTIONEER

Stricken at Home of Son in Philadelphia About Three Days Ago

CRIED MANY BIG SALES

Was Known Thruout Wide
Area As One of Best
Auctioneers

Edward B. Minster, Bucks County's oldest auctioneer and who also claimed that he was the oldest crier of sales in the State, died at the home of his son, Joseph, in Philadelphia, last evening at eight o'clock.

Mr. Minster was 84 years of age and up until the time that he suffered what apparently was a stroke three days ago was seldom ill. He made his home with his oldest daughter, Miss Florence Minster, 567 Bath street, from which place he departed about a week ago to pay a visit to his son. He appeared to be as well as usual upon arriving in Philadelphia until one evening while sitting in a chair conversing with his son, he attempted to get up and it was found that he was helpless. From that time to the time of his death he was unconscious.

Mr. Minster was known far and wide throughout this section and he had cried hundreds of public sales in the territory, some of which were very large. He took delight in telling the story of his many experiences as an auctioneer. He often told of the shortest sale he ever cried. It lasted 15 minutes and he disposed of $15,000 worth of real estate. His longest sale, he required a day, practically from daylight until dark. He stated that at this sale he did enough talking to put to shame some of the best experts at filibustering.

The largest sale the deceased ever conducted—that is from a monetary standpoint—was approximately $50,000 of real estate which he sold in 1925 and which sale was completed in three hours.

Mr. Minster's good health was attributed by him to his long life in the open air.

The deceased was born near Emille in Bristol Township in 1844. He had resided in Bristol for 17 years. At the age of 36 he began his career as an auctioneer. He often said that he had sold under the hammer property valued at $1,000,000.

The survivors of the deceased are three daughters, Miss Florence Minster, Mrs. Melvin Jeffreys, Bristol; Mrs. Louis Reick, Philadelphia; one son, Joseph Minster, Philadelphia.

The body was brought to Bristol today and funeral arrangements are being made by the H. S. Rue Estate. Burial will be from Miss Minster's home on Bath street.

CHANGE APPOINTMENTS

Bishop Joseph F. Berry of the Philadelphia M. E. Conference has announced nine post conference assignments of M. E. Church pastors in an adjustment of the appointments since the list was announced on Wednesday. Among them is that of the Rev. F. J. S. Morrow, former pastor of the Tullytown and Emille churches who on Wednesday was assigned to Marcus Hook. Rev. Morrow in the post conference appointment has been assigned to West Grove and the Rev. C. W. Robb has been sent to Marcus Hook.

STILL AN OFFICER

Howard R. Sattler, Bristol Township, has advised the Courier that he is still an officer of Bristol Township and also a deputy constable, despite the fact that it was stated in a dispatch from Doylestown yesterday that he is a former township police officer.

Struck By Automobile As He Crosses Street

John Arrison, Wood street, was injured last night when struck by an automobile driven by Arthur V. Lipincott, Linden street.

Mr. Arrison, it was said today, was injured about the head and legs. He is confined to his bed and the full extent of his injuries have not as yet been determined.

The accident occurred about opposite the Bristol Trust Company at about 7.30 o'clock.

Boys, Report Now!

The Harriman Men's Club desires that all boys who plan to participate in the baseball game in connection with Boys' Week report at once to Arthur Brooks, 241 Monroe street. Now is the time to get your names to Mr. Brooks, and if you want to make the team, boys, give him your name, age and address at once. Do not delay. Practice must be started in order to make a good team.

HEALTH EDUCATION

Physical education or health education, as it is called, is making rapid progress in the Bristol public schools as indicated by the recent performances of high school students.

The girls who have been training under Miss Mary Fine and the boys under Kenneth L. Townsend have both acquitted themselves with honor. The basketball teams achieved victories which far outnumbered those of any previous teams at the school and have showed all through the season that they could outplay a large majority of teams against which they competed.

The demonstration given Thursday night of health education in the high school "gym" was another exhibition which cast great credit not only upon the students but Miss Fine and Mr. Townsend, as well.

EXPEDITER OF TRADE

Before the Panama Canal was completed Admiral Mahan, whose fame as a student of maritime history spread throughout the world, wrote that it would in time be of special value to the great Mississippi basin.

He counted on an expansion of the trade of the Middle West which would flow through the Gulf ports to the West coast of South America, the Far East and to the Pacific coast of the United States. In this as in some of his other analyses Mahan was ahead of his day.

Industry and agriculture in the Mississippi basin is only beginning to profit from the canal. The Pacific and Atlantic coasts have profited most in the past and are using the canal for intercoastal trade in ever-increasing tonnage. About 40 per cent of the traffic that passes through Panama is carried by American ships from one American port to another.

Intercoastal trade via the Panama Canal has become one of the most important factors in the nation's transportation problem. It is interesting to speculate what the effect might be if the waterway were to be closed. Certainly coast-wide shipping would be hard hit and transcontinental railroads would benefit tremendously. This is but another way of saying that the Panama Canal has become an artery of world trade of as great importance as Suez.

Panama is to the United States what Suez is to Great Britain, so just as Great Britain in war as in peace must keep Suez open so that her vast trade may suffer no interruption, the United States is concerned to see that nothing disturbs the free use of the Panama Canal.

A hair on the head is worth two on the comb.

Many people with nothing to do make the mistake of doing it.

When a girl says she is blushing these days you have to take her word for it.

Men's suits haven't changed much since last year except that some of them look a year older.

It isn't a moral sense that makes the flapper seem offensive. It is hardening of the arteries.

Women should be given credit for discouraging the effort to restore the bustle to favor.

Figures published in England show wives there ordinarily live longer than their husbands. Thus making sure of the last word.

"THE JAZZ SINGER," starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. picture. This is the first novelization of this novel. It is based upon the play by Samson Raphaelson.

SYNOPSIS
Cantor Rabinowitz has trained his son, Jackie, to sing the Hebrew songs of the Synagogue. On the Eve of the Day of Atonement he finds Jackie singing ragtime in a "beer garden." He whips the child and Jackie runs away. Ten years elapse. Jackie, now Jack Robin, a jazz singer, meets Mary Dale, a dancer, who obtains a part for him in her vaudeville act. Mary returns to New York to star in a musical comedy and urges Lee, the producer, to send for Jack. Jack returns home. His father hears him playing jazz and orders him out. Meanwhile Mary awaits his arrival at rehearsal.

"That's just the point, Mary; I can't. Bolton's signed up with the movies—just yesterday. I got that straight from Tom Wheeler. And this whole thing's got me a little upset. We've got two weeks ahead of us, I know, but I don't want to take any chances and have to stick someone in at the last moment."

"Wait until you hear this boy. You'll be featuring him all over the place the day after we open. I tell you, Harry, I heard him sing in 'Coffee Dan's,' and it almost took my breath away. He's got something that none of these other 'mammy' singers have—a personality combined with a voice that simply makes you choke. I don't know where he ever learned to sing that way, but it seems natural to him. I don't even know where he came from—he never told us anything about himself when we were on the road, but he's got 'it' and a lot more."

"It seems so long since I've seen you..."

As they talked a young man opened the stage door and entered the hallway.

"I'm Jack Robin," he informed the doorman, who hurried to bar the entrance of an outsider. "I want to see Mr. Lee."

"Oh, Robin—Robin—sure," the old man stepped aside to allow the singer to pass. "There's Mr. Lee over there. Do you know him when you see him?"

Jack shook his head.

"See that man over there in the gray suit with the cigar? That's him." The doorman pointed out the two figures in the wings.

But Jack had already seen Mary, and with a nod of thanks he hurried forward with outstretched hands.

"Mary!" he called. "Mary! Gee, it's great seeing you again." He caught the girl's hands in his and pressed them eagerly.

"Well, I'm frightfully glad to see you," Mary's face lighted up. "Mr. Lee's been worrying his head off at your failure to appear. Harry—Mr. Lee, may I present Mr. Robin?"

The two shook hands and acknowledged the meeting with formal words. But instinctively Jack liked the man before him, and mentally he agreed with Mary's description of him as being a "frightfully nice person."

"When did you get in, Jack?" Mary asked.

"Why—not so long ago—just this afternoon. I—I went up to the hotel first, and that kept me for a while. I wanted to unpack a few things. As soon as I did that I came on right over here." Jack was trying to account for the time he had spent at his home, and succeeded. "But, Mary, I want to thank you for sending for me. I can't tell you how much—"

"That's all right, Jack. Let's not talk about it right now. I'll see you later and we can—"

"Here's your script," Lee finished sorting out the bundle of manuscripts under his arm and handed the part book to Jack. "You'd better listen in on rehearsals today and take your cues—read it. And then see what you can get done tonight. We've only got two weeks more."

April 2, the general manager of the company announced.

Because the flights will be made at night, a month of test trips will be necessary, allowing the pilots to familiarize themselves with the territory on both side of the routes.

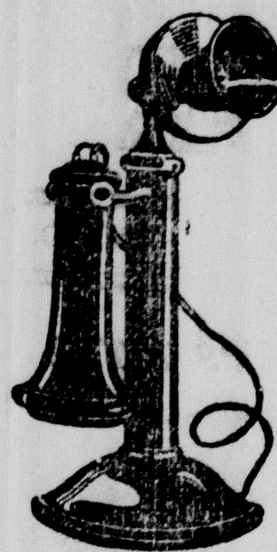

SHORT AND SWEET

"Yes, sir, I always goes to church when you preaches."

"I am glad to hear that, but why when I preach—why not every Sunday?"

State News

HARRISBURG, Pa., Mar. 31—(INS)—"Sustained worry is a bugaboo that not only ages the unfortunate victim, but sometimes even kills," Dr. Theodore Appel, Secretary of Health, said today.

"There are many people who look forward to old age with a sigh. They realize that the inevitable sequence of life and death is one of the fixed laws of all natural phenomena. Having reached a point of inactive resignation they early develop a worry complex which increases with the years, Dr. Appel said.

"If that were the end of the story it would be bad enough, but it is worse than that. Of course worry over anything has a way of aging people speedily. Worry therefore has no place in anyone's plan if they really have a desire to live long and happily.

"On the other hand, there are many things a person can do that should, barring accidents, definitely prolong youth, stave off old age and maintain the youthful spirit. Years of themselves do not necessarily spell old age. It is what one does with the years that really scores for or against the devitalizing processes.

"If the young man and woman, as well as those of middle age, who are foolishly engaging in habits which definitely reduce bodily and mental energy would but realize that they have within their own grasp the determining factors with respect to the old age problem, less premature old people would be noticed.

"Naturally if one lives long enough wrinkles and feebleness will arrive. But why hasten the day? There is no sense in being ninety or a hundred years old physiologically when in reality one has only lived fifty or sixty. But that is exactly what happens to many.

"The things that make people old before their time:

1. Excesses of all kinds.
2. Continuous lack of the necessary amount of sleep each night.
3. Habitual over-eating (one of old age's most powerful allies.)
4. Continual worry.
5. Breaking the speed limit in either work or play.
6. Lack of physical exercise.
7. And, in general, forgetting that the body, as well as business and pleasure, needs careful, systematic and intelligent attention.

"Old age grows on the above. Eliminate them from your daily program. Substitute common sense. And thus defer old age," he added.

Does a doctor take no medicine because he has good health, or have good health because he takes no medicine?

A local flapper:
"Love is like an onion—it's easy to bite, but after you have bitten you wonder why you did."

An astronomer has recently constructed a chart to show the relation of radio disturbances to spots on the sun. These figures will probably be known as statistics.

Little Mary getting her first sight of a peacock: "Look quick, auntie, one of your chickens is in bloom."

Her Mistake
In her silken stockings feet she stands five feet, she's petite; When she puts her stilted pumps on she is higher.
By three inches, then she humps. Bows her shoulders and she stumps. Through the city, but her gait we can't admire.

Store Manager: "They say brunettes have a sweeter disposition than blondes."
Clerk: "Well, my wife's been both, and I can't see the difference."

It seems that children do not pay any more attention to their parents than the parents do to them.

There's usually a lot to be said for both sides, but not in the case of a jazz phonograph record.

"An Old Prayer Still Good"
Give me a good digestion, Lord, and also something to digest.
Give me a healthy body, Lord, with sense enough to keep it at its best.
Give me a healthy mind, good Lord, to keep the good and pure in sight.
Which, seeing sin, is not appalled, but finds a way to set it right.
Give me a mind that is not bound, that does not whimper, whine or sigh.
Don't let me worry overmuch about the fussy thing called I.
Give me a sense of humor, Lord; give me the grace to see a joke.
To get some happiness out of life and pass it on to other folk.

All Is Vanity Case!
One longs for old-fashioned reserve. Whenever a flapper he meets Who proceeds with a case-hardened nerve To make a boudoir of the streets.

Senator Willis Dies As Presidency Boom Starts

DELAWARE, Ohio, Mar. 31.—(INS)—The entire state of Ohio was in mourning today for its favorite son, Senator Frank B. Willis, who died suddenly here at 9:09 o'clock last night in the midst of a home-coming welcome prepared by thousands of his fellow citizens.

Stricken by a cerebral hemorrhage, Senator Willis collapsed and died a few moments before his campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination was to have been launched in his native city.

National guardsmen of Delaware, called by their commandant, stood guard over the body in a little funeral parlor here this morning while the Senator's grieving relatives made arrangements for the funeral.

noon before Justice of the Peace Hobensack.

Petrick announced that this was the first case in a general campaign to be instituted by the Pennsylvania insurance authorities against New Jersey, New York, Delaware and Maryland agents who solicit insurance business in Pennsylvania without having taken out Pennsylvania licenses. When Auld's trial takes place at the next term of the Bucks County Court in Doylestown, he will be prosecuted by District Attorney Eastburn and a representative of the Attorney General's Department.

Other Trenton agents have been listed for similar prosecution. Petrick also announced, declaring that all unlicensed t. cking in insurance would be stopped by the Pennsylvania authorities.

successful in rearing ring-necks. An additional 5000 pheasant eggs will be purchased at a cost of about 25 cents each. All eggs will be hatched under domestic hens, this method having been most successful in other states.

A capable man has been placed in charge of propagation work. He has made a careful study of the large game farms of the East and will travel from refuge to refuge instructing keepers how to set the eggs and care for the chicks.

About 200 wild turkey eggs, purchased at a cost of $1.25 each, will also be hatched this spring on refuges where conditions are proper for the development of young turkeys.

rations in Miss Loomis' room. Drawings of rabbits and chicks are to be seen, and these the pupils finished in crayon. An Easter poem, enhanced by pictures of chickens, has a prominent place on the wall. One of the Spring projects is in the form of a small village laid out on the platform. Flowers were fashioned from paper and these line a small walk formed of sand that leads from a home to a school-house. Small shells form the outline of the walk.

Chalk has been brought into play in forming the Easter lilies in Miss Grace Haas' third-grade room. These were fashioned upon the blackboard and make a most neat border.

Sketches upon paper by the scholars include rabbits and Spring flowers, windmills and birds.

The instructresses at the Bath street school and the students have always taken great pride in the appearance of the building, especially at the holiday season. The Easter decorations are exceptionally pleasing this year.

If the weather is favorable this Bucks and Montgomery county affair, now endorsed by more than twenty historic and patriotic organizations is expected to surpass all previous assemblages held outside of the big cities.
